Battery Charge:

Your Easykart has a very advance battery charging system. Unfortunately, your Easykart may sit for days, weeks, or months, between races or practice days. Your battery will loose charge while unattended. You must charge you battery before running your kart at the track. It is highly recommended that you purchase and keep a fully charged spare battery. You can purchase a trickle charger at Radio Shack. You will need a low amperage (1 to 3) 12 volt trickle charger. You may also purchase an inexpensive volt meter. Your battery should read close to 13 volts when fully charged. There are some chargers that will not overcharge your battery.

Important: You must also remember to disconnect the red positive lead wire from the battery at the end of each day.

Ground Wires:

Your Easykart has two very important ground wires, one on each side of the chassis. The one on the right side goes from the coil base to the bolt that secures the side pod mounting bracket at the rear. The other one is on the left side and goes from the starting box wiring harness to the seat front attaching bolt. We recommend that you move this ground wire from the seat bolt to the left side pod bracket attachment at the rear. You must scrape the paint until you see bare metal under the ground wires. It is very important to have good solid ground connections on these two ground wires. If you fail to have good solid grounds, you risk damage to the starting box.

We are sure that occasionally you will have questions to ask or simply some advice. The following are the Easykart America contact information. Please do not hesitate to contact us if necessary.
